

AWARDS

In Search of Excellence

Over the years we have always strived to maintain a 'best practice' environment for the benefit of our customers, suppliers, community and, of course, ourselves.

Here are some facts that suggest we have succeeded:

- A rigorous training and development structure enables us to respond to rapidly changing employment markets. We consistently perform above sector norms
- By investing in leading-edge technology, our staff are supported by sophisticated network systems aiding a responsive and accurate search & selection service
- We keep our consultants. Average length of service currently exceeds eight years – "exceptional in the sector" according to our Federation
- Cumulatively, our consultants represent over 100 years of recruitment expertise - this level of knowledge results in accuracy and supports our 'no time wasting' policy
- Our temps tell us that they like working for us. Some have been with us for over 20 years, whilst others (such as students) return year after year
- We receive regular unsolicited testimonials from clients commending our temps
- We receive hundreds of letters, cards and tokens of appreciation from candidates
- Community and charity groups formally thank us for the work we do outside of work to support their initiatives
- Over 80% of new clients result from recommendation as do 85% of new candidates

UK's Top Temp 2003!

One in a Million Award is presented to Kevin McKenna by Malcolm Wicks MP (Minister for Works and Pensions).

Veronica Davies receiving National Training Award from BBC News presenter Justin Webb

Fine Words and all that...

As a 'best practice' business we constantly measure the success of our work and 'feel' we are doing a good job. However, we have also taken opportunities to put our business under the microscope and be externally measured against others. In the past ten years we have actively sought accreditation, entered (and been nominated for) various awards. These include:

- 1995 Investors in People – first accreditation
- 1995 Croydon Business Awards Training & Development - finalist
- 1996 National Training Award - winner
- 1996 CEBP award for Significant Contribution to Education & Business Working Together
- 1996 Solotec High Achievers Award - winner
- 1997 UK Top Ten Investors in People Company - NTA special award
- 1997 Best of Business awards Business in the Community - finalist
- 1998 Investors in People – second accreditation
- 2001 Best of Business awards Training & Development - finalist
- 2001 Investors in People - third accreditation
- 2002 REC UK Temporary Worker of the Year Award – overall winner
- 2003 National Business Awards - Southern Region finalist for Training & Development
- 2003 Best of Business Awards Best Employer Award – winner

National Training Awards Ceremony – Veronica Davies with CJR mentor, Sir John Harvey-Jones

Veronica Davies and Catherine Johnstone receiving their 2003 Best Employer Award from Councillor Stuart Collins (Mayor of Croydon)

Best Employers - CJR partners and staff and staff celebrating at the BoBs Awards Dinner

Catherine Johnstone Recruitment
 Saffron House, 15 Park Street, Croydon, CR0 1YD
 Tel: 020 8680 5777 Fax: 020 8681 0292
 E-mail: ask@cjrecruitment.co.uk